the State Department of the authenticity of the published interviews with Car-Cabrera, all criticising President Wilson's Mexican policy. Mr. Arredondo

There was an apparent disposition on the part of the Administration leaders to-day to permit Mexican matters to remain as they are until after election. Generally it is taken for granted that the usefulness of the joint Mexican-American commission is at an end. Criticism by Mexican officials of President Wilson have made it almost impossible for this Government to continue the negotiations without sacrifice of dignity and prestige.

Mr. Arredondo indicated last night Mr. Arredondo Indicated last night that he would go to the State Depart-ment to-day and officially tell Secretary Lansing that the interviews which Mexofficials published in the Outlook not authorized. Later he said he

After giving the widow the use of the country house, known as Foxdule, at Yonkers, during her lifetime, Mr. Clark's will sets aside four separate funds of $20,000 each, making $50,000 in all. The income is to be paid semi-annually to the widow, and upon her death the funds go to the four children, Dorothy, Mildred, Eugene, Jr., and Ruth. The residue of the estate goes to the children upon the death of their mother.

Two young men who had also sold birth control leaflets in a pamphiet written by Emma Goldman at a meeting for infantile paralysis cases after they have been discharged from the hosting in Union Squars on June 5, were also convicted and remanded to the Tombs until Friday for investigation.

"Fountain of Knowledge." .

In flashy neckties and pajamas 450 New York University freshmen marched around University Heights last night to the tune of "We Are Fresh" and "We Want Water." It was the night of the annual Hallowe'en ducking, the time when first year men are officially initiated into the institution. About 5,000 gathered on the campus to witness the bath in the "fountain of knowledge."

The freshmen supplied their own band

SEEK LISTING OF U. K. LOAN PLEDGES

Bankers Suggest Move to Exchange Authorities-Hampered for Space.

Some bankers interested in the new $200,000,000 United Kingdom note issue have suggested to the Stock Exchange authorities that all of the securities pledged as collateral for the loan be listed on the Stock Exchange. The terms of this note issue provide, as did the .$250,000,000 note issue, that the collateral may be soid at any time by the British Government, in the event that the British Government simultaneously retires notes or substitutes new neously retires notes or substitutes new collateral. It is good banking apinion that the listing of the collateral on the Stock Exchange would further popularize the two note issues.

The same point has been raised by the American International Corporation and by other hankers who have resulted.

by other bankers who have negotiated sales in this market of securities of for-eign Governments, dominions, provinces and municipalities. Since New York has become the one great money market of the world, in the flotation of securities other than those of its own country, they argue that these securities should all have a public market.

Exchange authorities are hampered by lack of space and by unavoidable delay in installing the bond ticker which the governors decided upon some time ago.
